

A Message from Luann Pulliam, Fred Astaire Dance Studios President & CEO

Hi everyone, as this coronavirus continues to unfold, on behalf of everyone at Fred Astaire Dance Studios we hope that you are safe and finding ways to stay engaged, positive, and active during this time.

First and foremost, please note that your safety and wellbeing is what's most important to us. And as valued members of the Fred Astaire Dance Studio family we hope you are following the advice of the experts and staying inside and helping your family, friends, and community from spreading the virus.

We will get through this together. For over 70 years Fred Astaire Dance Studios, culture of community and family has stood the test of time, we truly do care about each other. So, don't be surprised if your studio checks in on you while they are closed. We will merge stronger than ever before, and it's already happening. With dance lessons continuing with our students via Skype and Zoom and also the launch of our brand-new platform of dancing online so you continue dance lessons in the comfort of your own home.

We also appreciate the outpouring support from our students and our staff, and we can't wait to see you again. Since 1947 its been our mission to improve the lives of everyone who crosses through the doors of Fred Astaire Dance Studios through the power of dance. So, until we dance again, stay engaged, stay involved, stay positive, and stay safe.
